Storm Preparations Are Underway

Mother Nature can be unpredictable, and Bok Tower Gardens is in the process of implementing our emergency plan. The Gardens will remain open Friday, September 8; however, the final determination for weekend closures will be made Thursday afternoon.

The Saturday Live at the Gardens performance with Lift Irish Band has been postponed until Saturday, September 23. Ticket holders have been notified and will be able to use their same tickets for the new date.

In the event of closure, information will be posted to our website. After the storm passes, we ask for your help in refraining from entering the Gardens until visitation is authorized.
