All children are artists... The problem is how to remain an artist once he grows up. Pablo Picasso

Picasso's meaning is pretty clear. All humans are creative. As we grow up we sometimes become inhibited and concerned about social dos and don'ts or what others think. Our creativity can become stifled.

If that has happened to you, dare to take back your freedom of artistic expression. Promise to never again say "Oh I don't have a creative bone in my body!"

Creativity is the most genuine and free form of self expression. The moment you begin to cultivate your creativity and encourage it in others, you will find that you have given a powerful gift to yourself and the whole world!

Theatre and Drama Classes are not just for students wanting to be actors, but for all children.

Why DRAMA?

CONFIDENCE

SOCIAL SKILLS

COMMUNICATION

INDEPENDENT THINKING

LIFE SKILLS

CREATIVITY

Sydney Tucker, as Snow White chatting with her forest creature friends.
Directed by Audrey Fritz in 2011

Numerous studies show a correlation between drama involvement and academic achievement. Did you know that students involved in drama performance consistently outscore non-arts students on the SAT by an average of 65 points in the verbal component and 34 points in the math component? In addition, students who participate in drama often experience improved reading comprehension, maintain better attendance records and stay generally more engaged in school than their non-arts peers.

Studying drama requires emotional maturity, and gives students a deep understanding of themselves. Because it involves using not only their voices and bodies, but also emotions and creativity, it is able to engender a deep sense of self-esteem. It is also a subject that requires a great deal of peer trust, and so it plays an important role in teaching communication, listening and empathy skills. Studying drama is demanding, and teaches students that success only comes from hard work.

The skills acquired by studying drama are invaluable in later life. For example, being able to speak and present confidently in front of people, and the skill of planning that is required in any production, are useful in many careers. Drama can be a good basis for a career not only in the theatre, but in advertising, the film industry and even in events planning, among many others.

Big Reveal

Season 41 is right
around the corner!
